DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 19 is objected to because of the following informalities: "comprises" is spelled incorrectly. Further, in line 24 claim 19 " and zero or more of" seems to be a typo. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

With regards to claims 1-20 the methods and systems recited in the claimed invention do not produce a real life, real world, useful, concrete, and tangible result.

The claimed invention as a whole must accomplish a practical application. That is, it must produce a "useful, concrete and tangible result." State Street, 149 F.3d at 1373, 47 USPQ2d at 1601-02. The purpose of this requirement is to limit patent protection to inventions that possess a certain level of "real world" value, as opposed to subject matter that represents nothing more than an idea or concept, or is simply a starting point for future investigation or research (Brenner v. Manson, 383 U.S. 519, 528-36, 148 USPQ 689, 693-96); In re Ziegler, 992, F.2d 1197, 1200-03, 26 USPQ2d 1600, 1603-06 (Fed. Cir. 1993)).

A process that consists solely of the manipulation of an abstract idea is not concrete or tangible. See In re Warmerdam, 33 F.3d 1354, 1360, 31 USPQ2d 1754, 1759 (Fed. Cir. 1994). See also Schrader, 22 F.3d at 295, 30 USPQ2d at

Art Unit: 2863

1459. Nor can one patent "a novel and useful mathematical formula," Flook, 437 U.S. at 585, 198 USPQ at 195; electromagnetism or steam power, O'Reilly v. Morse, 56 U.S. (15 How.) 62, 113-114 (1853);

Please view the following guidelines to overcome 35 U.S.C. 101 rejection made in this office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Conway et al. (USPUB 2004/0064750)

With regards to claim 1, (USPN) teaches a memory medium that stores program instructions implementing an application programming interface (API) for synchronizing multiple devices in a system, wherein the API comprises:

a plurality of functions invocable in a program to synchronize a plurality of devices, wherein each function is executable to perform a respective functionality related to synchronizing the plurality of devices, and wherein at least one of the plurality of functions is executable to access a plurality of instrument drivers corresponding respectively to the plurality of devices to synchronize the plurality of devices; (pages 1, paragraph 0007-0008)

wherein, in synchronizing the plurality of devices, the plurality of functions are executable to:

determine a trigger clock signal for each of the plurality of devices; (pages 2, paragraph 0016) and synchronize the plurality of devices based on the determined trigger clock signals. (pages 2, paragraph 0016)

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Fischer et al. (USPUB 2003/0046448) teaches a application programming interface layer for a device, Wu et al. (USPN 6,663,924) teaches object synchronization between objects stores on different computers, Brouwer et al. (USPN 6,279,124) teaches a method and system for testing hardware and/or software applications and Wasserman et al. (USPUB 20030137528) teaches synchronizing multiple display channels.
